EXTENSION PROGRAM

Empowering People

March 13, 2019

Alcorn State University Extension Program in collaboration with the Mississippi Meat Goat Cooperative will conduct a workshop entitled: “Goat and Sheep Production: The Basics.” This workshop will be held on Saturday, June 1st, 2019, at the Research and Extension Complex in the Ray Johnson Assembly Center at Alcorn State University, 1000 ASU Drive, Lorman, MS 39096

Maria Leite-Browning, DVM, Alcorn State University, Richard Browning Jr, Ph.D., Tennessee State University, Bisoondat Macoon, Ph.D., Mississippi State University, Randy Smith, Ph.D., Alcorn State University and Mr. David Garcia, USDA/Marketing Services, Montgomery, Alabama will conduct the workshop.

This workshop is open to assist prospective, new and experienced producers. Topics to be discussed at the workshop will include animal health including internal parasitism management, meat goat breeds and genetics, forages, grazing and silvopasture managements, and grading systems for market along with a Q&A session.

Global meat goat production can bring diverse opportunities to increase revenue for limited-resource landowners in the Southeast.

The program will begin at 9:00 and will end at 2:00 pm. There is no cost, however pre-registration is required. Contact Dr. Maria Leite-Browning at mlbrowning@alcorn.edu or belindausher@ymail.com to register. The deadline to register is May 15th.
